

BIO: Neil Alexander

Principal Consultant Bucephalus Consulting

Communication Director, Canadian Nuclear Society

Strategic Advisor-Marketing, Kinectrics

Neil Alexander is the Principal Consultant at Bucephalus Consulting, the Communications Director for the Canadian Nuclear Society and a Strategic Advisor- Marketing at Kinectrics. With more than forty years of experience in the nuclear industry he has held roles in industry, government organizations, academia and industry associations.

A nuclear generalist he has run radioactive waste management companies in the UK and Canada, sold decommissioning and waste management services around the world, developed two radioisotope production businesses and created an academic program designed to build capacity to support a nuclear industry for a non-nuclear jurisdiction. He has extensive experience of communication about nuclear issues.

Neil is a materials scientist by training and holds a BSc and PhD from the University of Birmingham in the United Kingdom.

More information at:

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/neil-alexander-correctingmisinformation/>